

Automatic Slide Projector

This was used in the Department of Fine Arts in the 90's until the LCD projectors made their entry. These were fitted with a library which would hold a set of slides. The slides would move into position with a click and this definitely eased the pressure on the teacher. The department invested in several such libraries and faculty could hold on to theirs for some time till the unit was taught.

