

Contact Printer

A box with exposing lights, safelights, and viewing lights inside with a glass top. It has a hinges pressure cover to hold the negative and paper in contact during exposure. Switches on the printer control that control the lights in the printer.

During the 80's the Fine Arts department used the contact printer for in-house creation of slides from negatives of photographs clicked by the faculty in the department.

