

Manual slide Projector

This was used in the Department of Fine Arts in the 80's until the Automatic slide projectors made their entry. The slides used to be inserted manually in the window that used to slide laterally in front of the lens to beam the large image on to the screen. This process was repeated for every slide.

