

DECCAN Chronicle

January 23, 2014

NATURE POWER

Stella Maris college in the city turned eco friendly by installing solar panels on the terrace of the college to harness sunlight for electricity. The 200 panels will generate over 50 kW of electricity contributing six per cent of total electricity consumed on the campus. The college authorities said that state government had made 30 per cent contribution towards the cost of setting up the panels.

—DC