

May 09, 2016

Biotech Workshop at Stella Maris

The biotechnology department of Stella Maris College conducted a training workshop for UG students to equip them with practical skills in recombinant DNA technology and in the fields of immunological techniques. The five-day training course comprised both lectures and practical works. The lecture session introduced the principles of recombinant DNA technology, immunological techniques and their applications in medical aspects. The practicals comprised a series of exercises on recombinant DNA technology. ENS